II. Course Description
History 1102: Western Civilization II is a survey course designed to provide the student with an overview of European history from approximately 1648 to the present. Successful completion of ENG101 and ISE 100 with a grade of “C” or better prior to enrollment in this course is strongly recommended because the course requires reading and writing skills. It is also recommended that students complete History 101 with a grade of "C" or better before attempting History 102, but if you have not then be warned that this course contains spoilers!

III. Materials:
Textbook: (Secondary Source)
Hunt, The Making of the West Volume II: 1600-Present

You may obtain the books at the UNM bookstore or from other sources,( including Amazon.com, Half.com, Ebay, Barnes and Noble.com, new or used book stores, public libraries, etc.). If you intend to acquire electronic copies please talk to me about it.

IV. Course Objectives:
In this course, we will, analyze the impact of war, political reorganization, technology, social upheaval, and economic development on Europe, as well as examine the process and effects of industrialization, critique the impact of European expansion and imperialism, examine the events and effects of two world wars and numerous revolutions, and analyze the effects of post-war recovery and the Cold War. This course will furthermore allow you the opportunity to gain a greater understanding of contemporary political issues and enhanced and develop critical thinking skills in evaluating historical events and historical writings

V. Course Requirements.
1. Section Tests: There will be 4 multiple-choice tests to be given after we complete a section in class. Please do not email me asking if we have tests on any specific date, I will remind you all of forthcoming tests in class and I have included my best possible projection in the schedule. The material will be based upon readings from the Sherman textbook and lectures I will drop the lowest test score and count your best 3 (100 points each, 300 possible points).

2. Papers: There will be one book report paper on either a scholarly secondary source or a primary source of your choice; pending my approval. You may choose the book you wish to read and then do your paper on but it must be approved by me on or before the given date. The specifics of the book report If you suffer printer issues, you may submit an electronic copy by email to avoid a late penalty, but I will only grade a hard copy that you must bring to me by the following class meeting. (100 possible points)

3. Midterm/Final: I will give you a set of possible questions a few weeks in advance. You will pick four and respond to them in brief essay format. (200 possible points per assignment)
4. Class Participation: Your class participation will count toward your overall grade. This includes not only attendance, but also a demonstrated engagement of the material; i.e. your participation in class discussions, asking questions regarding lectures and readings during class (or during my office hours). Bear in mind, this is a significant chunk of your total grade. See also the Attendance policy listed in the section below. Tip for success: Make ME remember YOU. (200 possible points)

It is a UNM policy that all courses require final evaluations. This is your chance to provide constructive feedback or take your revenge.

VI. Grading

The grading for this course will follow the grading scale as shown below (no surprise here):

- 90-100% = A
- 80-89% = B
- 70-79% = C
- 60-69% = D
- Below 59% = F

3/4 tests, 100 points each = 300 points.
Midterm and Final 200 points each = 400
Book Report 100 each = 100 points
Attendance (and participation) = 200 points

1000 possible points.

Late Work: Papers and Midterms will be accepted late with a penalty of one-half a letter-grade for the first class meeting after the deadline, and one letter grade every meeting afterward. No makeups for quizzes/final.
VII. Course Expectations
History instructors, myself included, expect that students will develop listening and speaking skills through class participation. Students (you) are expected to attend class regularly and arrive promptly, and to assume responsibility for their (your) assignments. In addition, you are expected to display courteous behavior with respect for me as the instructor and to your fellow students. You are also expected to exercise honesty in your academic and personal interactions.

Attendance: The general attendance policy is as follows: Students enrolled for credit or audits are expected to attend all class sessions. I do reserve the right to drop anyone who violates this rule, though you should not count on me to do so, you are all adults and are responsible for your class grade. I will excuse two absences because sometimes “life happens”, but after that absences will begin to erode your grade. Therefore if you are experiencing unusual hardship, please communicate this to me right away so I can work with you.

Classroom Etiquette: Basically when you are here, you are here. You must give this class, and your instructor (me) your full attention for the time it is in session (or at least look like it).

Lateness and Leaving Early: Entering the classroom late is a distraction to your fellow students and to me as well so please be on time. Don’t get me wrong, I do understand that sometimes lateness cannot be avoided, in fact it even happens to me once in a great while, however consistent tardiness is just downright rude and unacceptable. The same goes for leaving class early – not for a phone call, not for the restroom, not because you’re bored, etc. – it is very disruptive. Leaving early may also count as an absence. If this is going to be a problem for you due to work schedules or another understandable reason please talk to me about it immediately because while I am strict on this I am not unreasonable. I will work with you.

Personal Conduct: When in class please observe the rules of common courtesy. This includes class discussions and during lecture, we are all adults and can have a civil and spirited conversation, even when we disagree. We do cover some sensitive topics in this class, but in an educated society we discuss our differences in a productive manner. I do not tolerate yelling, belligerency, belittling, or disrespect of any kind toward my subject, students, or myself.

Cell Phones: When you come to class, turn off your cell-phones. Furthermore, as a general rule of thumb, do not bring them out during class. I understand that in this day and age we all need our phones and once in a while we forget (once in a blue moon even mine goes off in class), but blatant disregard for this standard such as openly texting or surfing the web in class may result in an absence for that day and you may even be asked to leave for the duration of the meeting. You are all adults and can wait an hour to check your phone or Facebook. If you have an emergency situation for which you need to have your phone handy, please let me know.

Do not do work on homework for another class in my own. UNM does not allow food and drink in the classrooms.

I can’t promise every single thing will interest you, but we are all adults and this is a college course. There is no reason we cannot have an interesting and even enjoyable time with this subject matter but it requires student participation as much as an instructor’s preparation.
Cheat
ing and Plagiarism:
Each student is expected to maintain the highest standards of honesty and integrity in academic and professional matters. The University reserves the right to take disciplinary action, up to and including dismissal, against any student who is found guilty of academic dishonesty or otherwise fails to meet the standards. Any student judged to have engaged in academic dishonesty in course work may receive a reduced or failing grade for the work in question and/or for the course. Academic dishonesty includes, but is not limited to, dishonesty in quizzes, tests, or assignments; claiming credit for work not done or done by others; hindering the academic work of other students; misrepresenting academic or professional qualifications within or without the university; and nondisclosure or misrepresentation in filling out applications or other University records. I take this sort of thing extremely seriously. Make an honest effort at the classwork and you should have no reason to cheat. If you are ever unsure about what constitutes as “plagiarism” DO NOT RISK IT come and talk to me first.

VIII. STUDENTS WITH SPECIAL NEEDS
Students with documented disabilities can request academic adjustments or accommodations in the classroom through Equal Access Services (EAS). You may contact them by visiting their office in the Advisement and Counseling area of the Student Services Building. You may also contact Jeanne Lujan at (505) 925-8910 or by email at jmlujan@unm.edu. Also, students are encouraged to tell the instructor if they have special needs because of learning or other disabilities.

IX. Other Information.
Minor adjustments may be made to the schedule of assignments throughout the course of the semester, but take comfort in the knowledge that if and when such adjustments occur they will be both within reason and with your best interest in mind. Lectures and readings are intended to sync up for each class meeting, but will not necessarily remain perfectly synchronized throughout the course of the entire semester. Understand, of course, that lectures and readings will never contradict one another, and that it is your responsibility to remain up to date on both.

“Those who ignore history are entitled to repeat it.”

History is . . .

Very few things happen at the right time, and the rest do not happen at all: the conscientious historian will correct these defects. ~Herodotus, The History of Herodotus

History is a cyclic poem written by Time upon the memories of man. ~Percy Bysshe Shelley

People are trapped in history, and history is trapped in them. ~James Baldwin, Notes of a Native Son

Professor Johnston often said that if you didn't know history, you didn't know anything. You were a leaf that didn't know it was part of a tree. ~Michael Crichton, Timeline
Historians are gossips who tease the dead. ~Voltaire, Scribbling Books

History is herstory, too. ~Author Unknown

History with its flickering lamp stumbles along the trail of the past, trying to reconstruct its scenes, to revive its echoes, and kindle with pale gleams the passion of former days. ~Winston Churchill

We are the prisoners of history. Or are we? ~Robert Penn Warren, Segregation

History never looks like history when you are living through it. ~John W. Gardner

Legend: A lie that has attained the dignity of age. ~H.L. Mencken

God cannot alter the past, though historians can. ~Samuel Butler, "Prose Observations"

History is the sum total of the things that could have been avoided. ~Konrad Adenauer

Neither a wise man nor a brave man lies down on the tracks of history to wait for the train of the future to run over him. ~Dwight D. Eisenhower

Each time history repeats itself, the price goes up. ~Author Unknown

If an historian were to relate truthfully all the crimes, weaknesses and disorders of mankind, his readers would take his work for satire rather than for history. ~Pierre Bayle, Historical and Critical Dictionary

If you think you have it tough, read history books. ~Bill Maher

The challenge of history is to recover the past and introduce it to the present. ~David Thelen

The Past lies upon the Present like a giant's dead body. ~Nathaniel Hawthorne, The House of Seven Gables
