PLS
TO MY COLLEAGUES:

This week we had a very successful Strategic Planning Meeting where we updated our five-year plan and looked for new ideas to make our students more successful. Please submit any ideas for the plan to Dean Musselwhite.

Tania Garnas hosted our first STEM Advisory Board meeting this week with representatives from industry, colleges, and schools. We discussed our work in STEM and asked for advice and assistance as we provide more opportunities for our STEM students. Also last week a team of our undergraduate research students and faculty attended SACNAS, the National Diversity in STEM Conference in San Antonio, where one of our transfer students to UNM presented.

Last week Cindy Shue and Marcus Gallegos presented an informative and well attended session at the Hispanic Association of Colleges and Universities in Atlanta, Georgia on how to utilize the Department of Education Endowment Grant Program. President Stokes was also elected to the Governing Board of HACU at that meeting.

Jim Glover, working with the Village of Los Lunas on a program called “Edu Tourism,” will be meeting with me next week to discuss ways that the college can participate in this venture. Both Dean Musselwhite and Jon Lechel have been involved in this project which is attempting to bring more tourism to the area. Please send any ideas you have to me or Laura.

I will be serving on UNM’s Enrollment Task Force where I will be advocating for more support for transfer students. I would appreciate any ideas or stories about what might make our students more successful as transfers to our Albuquerque Campus.

Later this month our Administrative Team will be meeting with Lisa Kutilla on “Expanding the Rainforest Model to the Branch Campuses,” an attempt to bring entrepreneurial training to our community. We are very interested in learning about what opportunities might be available through this economic development project.

As ever, I am appreciative of the work you do as you work with our students every day.
I hope everyone had a relaxing Fall Break! Mid-terms are upon us, and the weather has turned cool. There are many wonderful opportunities around campus over the next month, and I hope you will take advantage of several. I would like to thank Julia Lambright for arranging three outstanding gallery shows this semester. The faculty and staff show is up currently, and a new show by Bruce Davis and Karen Hipsher begins on November 12, with the opening reception on Wednesday, November 14 at 4:30pm.

Other upcoming events are:
- Community of Practice Meeting – Monday, October 22
- Mole Day -- Tuesday, October 23
- Reading New Mexico – Thursday, November 1
- Faculty Academy – Friday, November 2
- Veterans Day Ceremony – Thursday, November 8
- Online Extravaganza – Friday, November 9

I want to thank Tracy Terry and Jerry Godbout for hosting the Two-Year College Chemistry Consortium conference on campus last weekend. Tracy brought forward the idea over a year ago, and has put in a tremendous amount of work to bring it to fruition. People loved our campus and seemed very energized about their work.

Yesterday I sent out to VFAC an article on teaching – specifically, “what do you want students to remember from your class in 20 years?” I asked people to think about coming together to discuss this article at the next Faculty Academy on November 2. Historians contemplate the past, obviously, but history teachers also contemplate how students perceive of themselves and their backgrounds as a result of our classes. I believe most of us do this. What is the essence of our discipline? If a student takes away only one thing from class, what would we want it to be? I have been impressed lately with how many of our faculty are interested in this type of bigger-picture question, and how many opportunities we try and provide for ourselves to dive deeper into issues such as these. I hope that you will take advantage of these discussions; one of our greatest resources is the wealth of insight we can gain from each other.
The President’s Report

Kevin Hobbs
Faculty President

We are halfway through the fall semester already – where has the time gone? Our campus continues to see some important changes through the fall, including upgrades to campus classroom technology, the installation of solar panels for electricity generation on the roof of the “A” building, and the beginning of the end of our old course numbering system.

I extend my thanks to all of you for your hard work on committees this semester. I know that committee work seems thankless and at times detrimental to our teaching, but it is necessary for the continued good work that we can do for our students. I have gotten to know several of you better through committee work, and I value those connections.

Here in the middle of the fall semester is a great time to schedule your peer and/or supervisor classroom observations. You still have time to make sure you get a visit on your very best day, rather than the last week of the spring semester.

UNM-Valencia STEM students, staff, and faculty have been very busy in the first half of the semester: students and faculty have attended and presented at the McNair Conference in Albuquerque and the Society for Advancement of Chicanos/Hispanics and Native Americans in Science (aka SACNAS) in San Antonio, Texas. Our very own campus hosted the Two-Year College Chemistry Consortium (2YC3) fall conference just last week – many thanks to Tracy Terry, Jerry Godbout, and Laura Musselwhite in making this national conference happen.

Thank you for the hard work that you do for our students. Have a good second half of the semester!

Kevin
The Teaching and Learning Center has a few more workshops coming up next week.

On Monday, our colleague Dr. Ariel Ramirez will be demonstrating how he uses the SMART Board and One Note as part of his lessons. I would like to invite you to come to his demonstration to learn how the SMART Board could be used as a beneficial tool for your lessons. We will also be holding a workshop on Improving Assignments and Projects using the PAPA strategies. Prof. Gillikin and I attended a workshop using this strategy at NMHEAR last year and thought it would be good to share this information with our campus because the strategy can be applied to any subject. I look forward to seeing you there.

This month the TLC has also been focused on hiring a new IT Support Tech. Interviews are underway and we expect to make a decision soon.

Calendar with workshops and specific dates and times will go out soon to VFAC.

We will present a workshop: “Speaking Up for Ourselves: Improv Practice to Give Voice, Establish Boundaries, and Create Community.” The session will include using improv and role-play to practice boundary setting and saying no with kindness and grace and firmness (which, as it happens, is a skill crucial to Writing Center Consulting).

Manufacturing:
We are excited to be offering our first Manufacturing class in the Spring of 2019 - MFGT 101 - Technology Foundations. We already currently have Manufacturing students on campus working on their core curriculum, and they will soon be able to jump into their program core as well!

Lots of Moves:
There are still many changes to BIT spaces happening at this point in the semester. The woodshop is moving to the old Game Lab (B107) in order to make room for the new Plastic Mold Injector machine that will support the Manufacturing student in their degree program. The new Game Lab (B110 - former CADT lab) is up and running, and has new monitors for the gaming machines being installed this week. Our Open Lab (B117) is up and running with internet, and the required software specific to the BIT students in being installed as well, which includes Adobe and Final Cut Pro. In the meantime, it has been a big help to have 4 Mac workstations now permanently located in The Learning Center for graphic/game/film student use as well.

Curriculum:
We are still revamping the Business Administration Degree this semester to more closely align with main campus, and provide more Business/MGMT classes for the majors.

The Computer-Aided Drafting, CADT, program is on hold at this time. Alex Sanchez has officially retired, and Ashlie Maxwell, our adjunct from last year, was able to find a full-time position as an architect and therefore did not return. We will miss them both! But, this provided the incentive to update that curriculum. Meetings have been had with the UNM School of Architecture to create a 1 + 3, eventually growing into a 2 + 2 program. CNM recently worked with them to start this program and it is currently running at CNM. We are using their program as a model and are hoping to get that up and running by next Fall. So, for the time being, let students know it is an exciting time to be interested in CADT and Architecture as the program is going through some changes, and look for ARCH prefix courses in the future.

BIT Division Programs:
- Digital Media Arts (DMA)
- Game Design & Simulation (GAME)
- Film Technology (DMA)
- Computer Aided Drafting (CADT)
- Auto Technology (AUTT)
- Construction Technology (CNST)
- Information Technology (IT)
- Business Administration (MGMT)
- 3D Printing (CADT)
- Welding (WLDT)
- Manufacturing (MFGT)
Welcome back, everyone.

It was a busy summer for Technology Support and we are excited for the new semester. As we have new equipment on campus, we are hoping to get feedback and suggestions from faculty. Please join us in exploring the possibilities that these innovations provide.

A125 has a new setup that lets instructors turn on and off all of the audio/visual equipment with the touch of a few buttons. The control panel is on the wall next to the podium. You select your input, your output and turn the A/V equipment on all from that one location. Then you can turn the A/V equipment off from the same panel.

There are new touch-screen, wall-mounted monitors in the Admin Conference Room, in the Game Lab and in the Nursing classroom. These are more versatile than the smartboards, offering new avenues for the presentation of materials to students.

Please take some time to try these out. We are looking forward to hearing your thoughts on these innovations as we wish to expand upon them in the near future. Please email your thoughts to John Abrams (jeabrams@unm.edu) or to me (mkmcc@unm.edu). If you would please use “New Equipment” in the subject, that will help us collect your input in one folder for review.

To update you all on two projects:

1) We are moving forward with the monitor upgrade and replacement project. At present, this will affect some, but not all of the classrooms on campus. Please take a look and let us know what you think. These can be seen in the Game Lab and B&T 124. This is an ongoing project and will be moving forward slowly but surely.

2) The B&T computer upgrade project has been completed. Please take a moment to look these over as well.

Lastly, a bit of housekeeping is in order. Technology Support has developed a new form that will help us keep track of your wishes regarding the data on your machines. Any time someone from Technology Support needs to work on your machine in a way that endangers the data stored on it, you will be asked to sign this form. That way, we know how you want the data treated. As options and feelings change from time to time, this will be an ongoing requirement. We will be adding a few more record keeping forms over the course of this semester and will let you know as they are designed and implemented. Thank you in advance for understanding.
Social Sciences

Julia So, Chair

This month, the Faculty at Social Sciences are clearly connecting with the community, both inside and outside of NM.

With Halloween around the corner, Nancy Cairnes-Pietrangelo, online instructor of Introduction to Women Studies, asked that we donate to Trick-or-Treat for UNICEF. The project started 68 years ago and will be her 52th year of collecting monies for UNICEF as a way to help kids still affected by World War II. Since then, millions of children across the United States have gone door to door on Halloween with UNICEF collection boxes, calling out, “Trick-or-Treat for UNICEF!” The annual tradition of Kids Helping Kids® — involving donations big and small — has helped to raise nearly $177 million since 1950.

If no one comes to your door you can donate directly at: https://secure.unicefusa.org/donate/make-your-trick-or-treat-unicef-donation-online/16042

On September 29, Dr. Stephen Sylvester, History online adjunct faculty, presented “Flintlocks, Tomahawks, and Food For Thought: The Corps of Discovery,” at the Pompey's Pillar National Monument in Montana. Sponsored by Humanities Montana, the event was part of the Park’s annual celebration of the Lewis and Clark Expedition. There were some 25 presentations, including Nez Perce dancers, flintlock demonstrations, and a variety of frontier activities. Adults and kids alike enjoyed tossing tomahawks while chewing on deer and elk jerky. Stephen has presented similar programs in all of the states west of the Mississippi, as well as China, and Turkey.
October is Domestic Violence Awareness Month. On October 1, Valencia Speaks presented a forum on Domestic Violence Awareness. The panelists were:

- Catalina Nuñez, LMSW, Valle Del Sol of New Mexico (Catalina is a Valencia Alumna)
- DeAnn Sanchez, Assistant District Attorney, NM 13th District Attorney’s Office
- Matthew Strand, Assistant District Attorney, NM 13th District Attorney’s Office
- Alexandria Taylor, Executive Director, Valencia Shelter Services
- Amy Whitefield, Executive Director, Domestic Violence Resources Center

The program was well attended. Below are some comments from the program evaluations:

- The sheer amount of information was excellent.
- I like the part that the event actually provides solutions to people.
- I liked that the panel was made up of all different kinds of people who are involved when it comes to DV.

Finally, Dr. Richard Melzer, Regents Professor of History, has recently announced his official retirement at the end of this semester. Fortunate for Valencia students, Richard will continue to teach part-time. He has requested that his official retirement party to be held when he will eventually “fly the coop.”

¡Adelante!
UNM-Valencia hosted a national chemistry conference for two-year college chemistry educators over Fall Break. The theme of the conference was ‘Promoting Scientific Curiosity’. Over 50 educators attended from as close as Belen High School and CNM, and as far away as North Carolina and Oregon. Many local personalities contributed to the presentations including Richard Melzer, who contributed a welcome address on the history of the Rio Abajo’s most famous residents. Soledad Garcia-King and Jerry Godbout presented on using technology in the classroom. Andrew Nelson, from Sandia National Laboratory, spoke on chemical security at academic institutions. Cheo Torres, from UNM, spoke on the traditional use of medicinal plants. Joseph Ho, from the UNM Department of Chemistry, spoke on modifications of general chemistry laboratories that increase student engagement in the scientific process. Miriam Chavez discussed the R2S2 and S-STEM grants. R2S2 students Gage Lamborn and Danayara Childress presented research posters to attendees.

I would like to thank the many people that made the 2YC3 conference such a success. Jerry Godbout and Laura Musselwhite were instrumental in the planning and execution of the conference. Miriam Chavez kept the conference on track by wrangling all the participants, volunteers, keynote speakers, exhibitors, coffee, snacks, and catering during the event. Robert Castillo and Mary McCarthy helped with the AV equipment. Catherine Miner handled the facilities details. Mariah Ibuado and Taylor Torres put together the packets for registrants. Marcus Gallegos, Debra Venable, and Cheryl Klein handled the financial details. Students Gage Lamborn, Corey Griego, Danayara Childress, and William Mitchell volunteered at the registration desk and helped direct attendees to their destinations. Rutilio’s and Jersey Mike’s in Los Lunas provided delicious catering.

Thank you all for supporting the conference!
