The information in this syllabus outlines the policies and procedures for English 1110 and it serves as a contract between myself, the instructor, and you, the student. YOU are responsible for familiarizing yourself with these policies and procedures and ensuring that you follow them. Please feel free to ask questions and alert me to any concerns you may have. I also encourage you to visit me during my office hours listed above. If you are not available during those times, feel free to e-mail me and we can try to set up an appointment.

Course Description:

Welcome to Accelerated Composition English 1110! To be successful in college and beyond, you need to become adept in writing on a variety of topics, for a variety of purposes and audiences. In this course, students will read, write, and think about a variety of issues and texts. They will develop reading and writing skills that will help with the writing required in their fields of study and other personal and professional contexts. Students will learn to analyze rhetorical situations in terms of audience, contexts, purpose, mediums, and technologies and apply this knowledge to their reading and writing. They will also gain an understanding of how writing and other modes of communication work together for rhetorical purposes. Students will learn to analyze the rhetorical context of any writing task and compose with purpose, audience, and genre in mind. Students will reflect on their own writing processes, learn to workshop drafts with other writers, and practice techniques for writing, revising, and editing. To help you create well-edited essays, you can expect to learn five grammar competencies (comma splices/run-ons, fragments, pronoun agreement and reference, punctuation, and subject/verb agreement). If you learn these writing skills, you will become a more successful communicator in your academic courses and a more thoughtful professional in your career.

Student Learning Outcomes:

By the end of the semester, you should be able to:

1. Analyze communication through reading and writing skills.
2. Employ writing processes such as planning, organizing, composing, and revising.
3. Express a primary purpose and organize supporting points logically.
4. Use and document research evidence appropriate for college-level writing.
5. Employ academic writing styles appropriate for different genres and audiences.
6. Identify and correct grammatical and mechanical errors in their writing.

Required Materials:

1. Practical Argument, by Laurie Kirszner and Stephen Mandell.
2. A Pocket Style Manual, 8th Edition. By Diana Hacker
3. A folder or notebook exclusively used for this class.
4. Something to write on and something to write with.
5. Computer access outside of class in order to access Learn and the UNM library system

Blackboard Learn

This class is supplemented by Blackboard Learn, where I will post the syllabus and other information. Learn can be accessed at learn.unm.edu. You will need your banner ID and password to access the site.

Attendance:

Class attendance is mandatory for all English 1110 students. Each class in the course is designed to progress into the next. If you do not come to class, you will not only miss that day's instruction but also the background and preparation for the next class. Coming to class unprepared (i.e. without a draft on a peer-review day) will be considered an absence. Occasionally problems arise and absences cannot be prevented. I highly encourage you to let me know as far in advance as possible, especially if it is a peer-review day or the due day for an assignment.

Whether you contact me or not, you are responsible for turning in all assignments on the day they are due and the preparation for the next class. More than four absences in a semester may result in being dropped from class.

*A note on tardies: We are all adults in this class and should be able to make it to class on time. If you do arrive late, try to be as quiet as possible and grab the first available seat when you enter the classroom. Three tardies will be counted as one absence.

Late Work:

Written Assignments including all MWAs and SWAs are due at the beginning of class on the scheduled day, whether or not you come to class that day. I understand that emergencies and sick days happen, so everyone will get ONE late paper allowance. You must bring the late paper to the very next class period. If it is a technology issue, e-mail the paper to me before class begins on the day it is due. If you have used up your one late paper allowance, I will not accept another late paper and you will receive a zero for all future late assignments. Worksheets and other smaller assignments are also due on the day they are assigned. If you come to class and do not have an assignment completed, you may use your one late paper allowance for the assignment (remember once that option is used, it is gone for the rest of the semester!). If you are absent on a day that one of these assignments is due, simply bring it with you to the next class and it will be accepted with no penalty.

Conferences

Several times this semester, you will be required to meet with me outside of class to discuss your papers. These conferences are mandatory and missing a conference counts as a class absence.

Using Student Writing in the Classroom

On occasion, I may bring student writing into the classroom for analysis and discussion. This means that each student may have his or her writing (anonymously) discussed by the class at some point. In addition, you will be expected to share your writing within small groups for one-on-one peer review sessions.

Equal Access:

Equal Access Services phone (505) 925-8560 and website <https://valencia.unm.edu/students/advisement-and-counseling/equal-access-services.html> provides academic support to students with disabilities. If you need alternative formats for completing course work, you should contact this service immediately to ensure your success. Once you have been with Equal access, you must send all documented forms to me ASAP. I cannot accommodate any special needs without the proper authorization from UNM Valencia Campus Accessibility Services, who tell me how to help you best. Once I receive your paperwork, pursuant to the American with Disabilities Act (ADA), I accommodate all documented special needs.

Classroom Conduct:

You are expected to treat your classmates with courtesy and respect. This means that, while we may disagree (and in fact, discussion and debate are part of the university experience, part of our education), we will do so courteously and with care and respect for each other as fellow human beings. UNM students and instructors are bound by the terms of the Student Code of Conduct, which is published in the UNM Pathfinder at <http://pathfinder.unm.edu/policies.htm#studentcode>. I encourage debate and discussion in the classroom, but I will not allow rudeness or maliciousness in any exchange. If you cannot keep your comments on point, thoughtful, and productive, I will ask you to leave the class and mark you absent for the day.

Answering phone calls or text messaging during class will be considered a rude disruption, and will not be tolerated. Please keep your cell phones on silent and out of sight. If you use your phone as a calendar, add your events after class. I cannot tell the difference between productive cell phone use and distracting cell phone use from the front of the classroom. I understand it is a large temptation to surf the web and check Facebook during lecture time, but you MUST resist the temptation!!!

Grade Determination: Your semester grade will be determined as follows:

Class Grade Percentage Allocation

Assignment	Points
Vocabulary building	160
Small Writing Assignments and oral presentations	190
4 Major Essays	400
Grammar assignments and test	250
Final Portfolio	200
TOTAL	1,200

UNM Grading Scale

A+ 97-100%	A 93-96.9%	A- 90-92.9%
B+ 87-89.9%	B 83-86.9%	B- 80-82.9%
C+ 77-79.9%	C 73-76.9%	C- 70-72.9%
D+ 67-69.9%	D 63-66.9%	D- 60-62.9%
F 0-59.9%

NOTE: Students must have a “C” average in order to pass English 1110 (meaning 73% or higher).

Grading standards for individual writing assignments will be distributed as separate handouts.

Portfolio

At the end of the semester you will be submitting a Final Portfolio. A portfolio is a collection of your work which should demonstrate the improvement in your writing during the semester. In order to be able to complete this portfolio, you must keep the first drafts of the essays that you produce throughout the semester which contain the instructor’s comments. If you do not have these first drafts, the final portfolio grade will be adversely affected. Graded by your instructor, your portfolio will be evaluated using the English 1110 Learning Outcomes to determine the effectiveness of your overall expository writing ability and readiness for English 1120. Portfolios will receive a pass/fail and a letter grade.

Although you will be given more detailed information later in the semester, here is some general information about the portfolio requirements:

- The portfolio will include two major assignments which have been revised over the course of the semester, demonstrating in written form that you have performed college-level reading and writing tasks.
- The portfolio also includes a reflective cover letter illustrating your understanding of course outcomes in terms of your critical awareness of the process through which you worked to achieve them and with special consideration of how you can apply this knowledge in other situations.
- You must present a passing portfolio (a C or better) in order to pass ENG 1110. Students who do not pass the portfolio will need to repeat the course.

Plagiarism Policy

“Plagiarism” is a type of academic dishonesty. It occurs when writers deliberately use another person’s language, ideas, or materials and present them as their own without acknowledging the source. Every first-year writing class covers plagiarism in great detail, so there is little excuse for failing to understand what constitutes plagiarism or the consequences that will result.

Types of Plagiarism

Plagiarism can include any of the following:

- Failing to quote material taken from another source.
- Failing to cite material taken from another source.
- Submitting writing that was written by another person.
- Submitting writing that was substantially edited by another person.

Possible Consequences

The instructor decides the academic consequence to be imposed, depending on the seriousness of the violation. Sanctions include the following:

1. Adequately redo or revise the assignment in question;
2. Fail the assignment in question;
3. Be dropped from the class with a W; or
4. Fail the class.
5. Be subject to more severe sanctions imposed by the University.

Tutoring

Face-to-face and online tutoring is available through The Learning Resources Center. You may call 925-8907 for information, or you may visit <http://www.unm.edu/~tutor/> where you can arrange tutoring sessions. But before visiting a tutor, remember, don't wait until the last minute to bring your paper and expect someone to "fix it"; the tutors work with you, not for you.

Drop Policy

Dropping or being dropped from a course can affect your GPA, enrollment status, and financial aid/award status. Always talk to your instructor before it's too late about the possible consequences of a drop and opportunities for avoiding it.

A few things to consider:

- A drop before the end of the third week in a sixteen-week semester will not appear on your transcript, and you will not earn credit hours or a grade in the course.
- Your instructor can drop you from the course at any point in the semester before finals for violating attendance policy.
- If you, your instructor, or the Dean of Students initiates a drop after the end of the third week in a sixteen-week semester, you will receive a W on your transcript, and you will not earn any credit hours for the course.
- If no drop is initiated by the end of the semester by any party, then based on your performance and attendance your instructor will use his/her discretion to decide whether to assign you a grade from A+ to F.

Important Dates:

January 21: MLK Birthday - no class

March 16-20: Spring Break—no classes

February 7: Last day to drop class without a grade
