Course CRN: 51186; 8/20/18-12/15/18
Course No and Section, Dates and Times: 110.508, Online
Prerequisites: English 100 or ACT 19-25 or Compass 75-100

Course Description
Welcome to Composition II: Exposition (English 110)! In this course, you will write essays, which may include summary analysis, rhetorical analysis, visual analysis, definition analysis, argumentation. These essays require your developing good writing habits, including prewriting, drafting, revising, and editing, which will help create a unified focus, strong development, and clear organization. You will also be required to integrate quotations from primary readings and web sources, to avoid plagiarism, and to evaluate web sources. Essays must demonstrate correct grammar and strong sentences. If you learn these writing skills, you will become a more successful communicator in college courses and a more thoughtful professional in your careers.

Your Professor
I am Dr. Jami L. Huntsinger (pronounced Hun-singer). I grew up in South Dakota (I am Lakota French), and I moved to New Mexico in 1989. After graduating from the University of New Mexico in 1997, with a Ph.D. in English, I chose to work at a two-year college because I enjoy teaching. In 1997, I accepted a position as an assistant professor at Valencia Campus. I am now a tenured professor, who enjoys teaching classes, including Composition 101/110 (face-to-face and online), 102/120 (face-to-face and online), Composition 220, Grammar 240 (face-to-face and online), Introduction to Literature 150 (face-to-face and online), Southwest Literature 211, and Native American Literature 264 (face-to-face and online). I am a resident of Belen, New Mexico. I love my life in the valley; I especially enjoy hearing the braying of the burro, Chelsea, who lives next door. She is my 6:00-am alarm clock. To make my life complete, I have three special animal friends – Heidi, a four-year-old Dachshund who loves to eat socks, and Mia, a Dachshund cross who loves to race about the yard. The newest addition to the family is Dawn Noel, a dachshund who Santa Claus dropped down the chimney Christmas.
Learning Outcomes for Composition I: Exposition

The University of New Mexico’s Learning Outcomes for Composition I: Exposition

All students registered at any of the University of New Mexico campuses must meet the following goals and objectives to pass Composition II: Exposition. These learning outcomes are part of the grading matrix used to grade your writing. If your writing meets these learning outcomes, you will have successfully passed the course. By the end of the semester, you should be able to,

Students should be able to do the following:

1. Use the appropriate rhetorical situation and genre – You should be able to analyze, compose, and reflect on arguments in a variety of genres, considering the strategies, claims, evidence, and various mediums and technologies that are appropriate to the rhetorical situation.

2. Use writing as a social act – You must be able to describe the social nature of composing, particularly the role of discourse communities at the local, national, and international level.

3. Approach writing as a process – You will use multiple approaches for planning, researching, prewriting, composing, assessing, revising, editing, proofreading, collaborating, and incorporating feedback to make your compositions stronger in various mediums and using multiple technologies.

4. Use Standard Written American English grammar and usage – You will improve your fluency in the dialect of Standardized Written American English at the level of the sentence, paragraph, and document, analyze, describe the value of incorporating various languages, dialects, and registers in your own and others’ texts.

5. Reflect on your progress – You will evaluate your development as a writer over the course of the semester and describe how composing in multiple genres and mediums using various technologies can be applied in other contexts to advance your goals.

6. Employ research responsibly – You will 1) use writing and research as a means of discovery to examine your personal beliefs in the context of multiple perspectives and to explore focused research questions through various mediums and technologies, and 2) integrate others’ positions and perspectives into your writing ethically, appropriately, and effectively in various mediums and technologies.

To meet these objectives at the 110 level, we will focus these skills on this semester.

1. Create essays using the appropriate genres required for writing tasks. Genres are types of rhetorical strategies, or ways you present information, such as summary analysis, rhetorical analysis, visual analysis, definition analysis, or argumentation. You need to address the requirements of the questions asked.

2. Organize your essay. Organization includes employing several skills, such as writing strong thesis statements and topic sentences, using transitions, organizing sentences within focused paragraphs, and ordering paragraphs in logical way.

3. Develop your paragraphs. Development includes using examples and support to help illustrate your points. Personal examples and/or quotations from readings and/or web sources are also required in your essays. Essays need to be 3-4 pages in length.

4. Read texts accurately. To be successful writers and thinkers, you should read critically, summarize accurately, and/or analyze insightfully. You will also be required to analyze and evaluate web sources that you use to support your points.

5. Revise and edit papers. Using skillful writing strategies, including prewriting, drafting, revising, and editing, will help you create compelling essays. You must demonstrate an ability to revise and edit in the final portfolio and in papers submitted during the semester.

6. Write good, well-crafted sentences and use correct grammar. Awkward sentences and grammatical errors make writing hard to read and result in bad communication. In English 110, you must demonstrate competency in these areas: 1) fragments, 2) comma splices/run-ons, 3) pronoun reference and point of view (second person), 4) punctuation, focusing on commas, apostrophes and quotation marks, and subject verb agreement. You need to demonstrate this competency by passing a final examination with a 73% or higher and by writing correctly edited papers.

7. Use MLA for formatting papers and citing sources. This learning outcome includes using MLA formatting for presenting papers citing sources to avoid plagiarism. You will focus on learning MLA documentation to cite primary readings and web sources.
Grading Scale
Not all assignments and their grades are equal in value. At UNM VC, you can earn a course grade of A, B, C, D (fractionated), F, W, or I (See Incomplete section for more details about this grade). C- or lower is failing, and if you earn a C-or lower, you must retake the course. Some of your assignments are worth more than others are. For example, homework and participation are worth 10%. Grammar Quizzes and the Grammar Examination are worth 10%. Major writing assignments, which you submit during the semester, are worth 60%. Finally, the Final Portfolio is worth 20%. These assignments meet the learning outcomes and measure your readiness for 120.

Grading Criteria
The following outline is the criteria used to grade your writing. Knowing these criteria will help you know what you need to strive for to improve your writing.

To earn an “A,” (Excellent, Pass): This type of paper demonstrates a compelling, original, and thoughtful thesis that is supported by accurate details, examples, and explanations. The paper is easy to follow because it is clearly organized and has transitional markers. Paragraphs are unified and well supported. In addition, precise and lively word choices are combined into balanced, varied, and clear sentences. There are few, if any, deviations from standard usage, grammar, and mechanics, especially. The paper has very few sentence boundary errors, such as comma splices, run-ons, and fragments. This paper addresses the question asked clearly and imaginatively.

To earn a “B,” (Good, Pass): This paper is also strong, but it is less polished than the “A” paper based on the quality of the thesis, diction, or the sentence variety. However, the essay is still focused and interesting. Its organization is correct, but transitions are sometimes strained. While developed, the paper needs some additional support to explain points more fully. Paragraphs are typically unified. The paper is generally correct mechanically, though there may be problems with complex grammar and punctuation, such as apostrophes or subject/verb agreement. There are few, if any, sentence boundary errors: comma splices, run-ons, and fragments. This paper addresses the question well.

To earn a “C,” (Average, Pass): Although the paper contains good thought and interesting ideas, the essay’s focus, while there, is not well written or maintained. The organization is acceptable, though some parts may be awry. The essay needs further development, but it contains a few well-placed examples or details. Some paragraphs are unified, but some need the focus of a strong topic sentence. Sentences in paragraphs may need organization. Though the paper has few major errors, there are some mistakes in spelling, grammar, and punctuation. The paper contains some sentence boundary errors, such as comma splices, run-ons, and fragments, but overall reflects a strong understanding of sentence structure. The paper addresses the question.

To earn a “D,” (Inadequate, Failing): This type of essay too often seems an unfocused exercise, even though there may be promising ideas throughout. Usually, there is no thesis, but if there is one, it is too general to be effective. Some principle of organization is apparent, but the principle is not successfully followed or lacks consistency and coherence. Development is weak, and paragraphs are not unified and sometimes not used. Errors in spelling, grammar, and punctuation are frequent enough to distract and confuse the reader. Sentence level errors abound: too many comma splices, run-ons, or fragments exist. The paper often does not discuss the question asked.

To earn an “F,” (Unacceptable, Failing):
The essay seems a mechanical exercise without purpose or audience. There is no clear principle or organization. Paragraphs do not exist. Development is weak, often indicated by an one-page essay. There are frequent sentence structure errors of the gravest sort. Sentences often do not make sense. Errors indicate failure to understand the basic grammar of the sentence. The paper does not address the question or is very hard to read.

To earn a “0,” (Unacceptable, Failing):
The student has not turned in any work to be graded. (Important: Portfolios are not accepted late.) If the paper has been turned in, it is plagiarized.
Writing Requirements
You will write a minimum of 3 essays of 2-3 pages in length. You must submit all essays to be able to submit a portfolio; if you do not submit all essays, you will earn a 65% for the course, which will require you to retake English 110. To receive full credit for your writing, you must follow the directions for each of the assignments and pay special attention to organization, focus, development, MLA formatting and documentation, and length guidelines. You need to word process writing assignments using MLA formatting rules. Writing is graded with a rubric.

1. Submitting Your Writing Assignments: Submit your writing assignments in Word file format using 12-point font as an attachment. If you are unsure how to “save as” a Word file, consult Blackboard Learn help desk (277-5757) or UNM Valencia Writing Center for help converting files wps, pdf, or wks files to Word documents.

2. Due Dates for Homework and Essays: The due dates for work in the class are posted in Blackboard Learn.

3. Plagiarism: Your writing assignments must not be plagiarized, or copied. Plagiarism means using words and/or ideas in your writing without acknowledging their source. Plagiarism includes copying another student’s papers or ideas, downloading and submitting papers from the Internet, copying passages from sources without proper documentation, or rephrasing an author’s ideas and then presenting them as your new, original thoughts. To learn how to avoid plagiarism, you can talk to me, e-mail me, consult a tutor, or complete the Plagiarism Tutorial in Course Materials in Blackboard Learn or at http://library.acadiau.ca/tutorials/plagiarism. (Pick Dylan in the tutorial.) If you would like more reading about plagiarism, The Owl at Purdue website offers sage advice: http://owl.english.purdue.edu/owl/resource/589/01. If you do plagiarize, you will fail the assignment, fail the course, and/or facing disciplinary action taken by the University. Your actions will be reported to the Division Chair of Humanities and the Dean of Instruction. Further disciplinary action, in addition to the actions taken for the plagiarism, may be taken based on the severity of the behavior. The University considers plagiarism a serious form of academic dishonesty – stealing.

Portfolio Requirements
During the semester, you must submit a Final Portfolio to pass the class. The following are the requirements for the portfolio.

Final Portfolio – The Final Portfolio is a collection of your writing that may determine whether you pass/fail the course. The 110 English Panel evaluate your readiness for 120 and assign a pass or fail for the portfolio.

If the portfolio fails the 110 Panel evaluation, you may fail the course and earn a 72% or lower for the course; you must then retake English 110. If the portfolio passes the 110 Panel evaluation, your instructor will grade the content of your Final Portfolio and then average it with the other work you have completed during the semester. If you earn a 73% (C) or higher on all work completed in the course during the semester, you will pass English 110.

You must submit the following in the Final Portfolio: A table of contents, a self-evaluation, two revised essays.

General Policies for English 110
Reasons Students Can Be Dropped
You may be dropped if,

• You do not turn in any one of the assigned major writing assignments.
• You have not submitted 50% of the course work.
• You are disrespectful to classmates or to me in correspondence, such as discussions, e-mails, or peer editing sessions. This behavior includes rude comments, swearing, or threats. Students who threaten the mental or physical safety or well-being of any member of the class will be dropped immediately. This includes stalking, cyber stalking, or threats of/actual physical violence. The student will be reported to Security and may be dropped immediately.
• You will receive a warning; if no change occurs, you will be dropped.

Reasons for Failing
Sadly, some students will fail the course. Trying hard or turning in work does not guarantee a passing grade. You must write at an acceptable level of competency, and if you do not, your writing fails.

Incomplete
If you earn an "I," or incomplete, you have neither passed nor failed the course. "I" is assigned only if you have completed all the coursework, but due to some unforeseen emergency, you are unable to complete the final portfolio. Accommodations are also made for soldiers who are deployed. I will ask for documentation. You must submit the work the next semester, or the University automatically converts the "I" to an "F."

Grade Disputes
Because a panel of 110 instructors reads, evaluates, and passes or fails students’ portfolios, it is rare that your writing has been misevaluated. However, if you wish to challenge your final grades, you must follow the following procedure.
• Check the University of New Mexico Student Handbook.
• Speak to your instructor first. If the problem is not resolved, then speak with the Division Chair of Humanities.
• The Student Privacy Act, a federal statute called FERPA, strictly prohibits the instructor or administrators from talking to anyone but the student about his/her grades, progress, or work. (No relatives or friends). I WILL NOT make any exceptions to this policy.

Revising Your Writing
All revisions you do throughout the semester should illustrate substantial work done on the essay, such as working on organization, structure, or development. To revise, review peer editors’ comments, ask your instructor questions, or get help from tutors at The Learning Commons or Writing Center. Revision means making substantial changes (see Example of Global Revisions below.)
Editing Your Writing
Running the Spell and Grammar Checker

Before you submit any writing, run the spell/grammar check. While this is not a full "revision," it is a type of revision called line-by-line editing, a necessary step that will help you get a better grade. In Word (not Word Online), you can set the spell and grammar check to catch more errors. (If you need additional help, type “settings for spelling and grammar” in the help box.) The following are the directions for Word:

1) In the 2007 version of Word, click on "File" in the upper left-hand corner or the screen. Select "Options" located at the bottom of "File."
2) Click on "Proofing."
3) In the section that reads, “When correcting spelling and grammar in Word,” make sure “Writing Style” is set to “Grammar and More.”
4) Next, click on “Settings,” which is right next to “Writing Style.”
5) Make sure all boxes are checked.
6) “Punctuation required with Quotes” should be set as “Inside.”
7) “Spaces Between Sentences” should be set as “Two Spaces.”
8) Click on “Ok.”
9) Every time you check grammar and spelling, click on “File,” “Options,” and “Recheck Document.” This will ensure that your document is check thoroughly each time.

You are now ready to spell/grammar check your document. To spell/grammar check, click on the tab called "Review" in the upper middle of the screen and then click on "Spelling and Grammar," on the upper left-hand side of that screen. After you have run the “Spelling and Grammar,” you must read your document carefully to catch any errors spell/grammar check may have missed – e.g. form/from. Helpful grammar sites, like “Grammar Girl” if you have questions about usage: Grammar Girl, http://www.quickanddirtytips.com/grammar-girl

The following example illustrates the type of editing you should be doing:

EXAMPLE OF SENTENCE-LEVEL REVISIONS

Team sports, are as much a part of American life as Mom and apple pie, and they have a good tendency to bring people together. They encourage team members to cooperate with one another, they also create shared enthusiasm among fans. Because of television, this togetherness now seems available to nearly all of us at the flick of a switch. It would appear that television has done us a great service. But is this really the case? Although television does make sports more accessible, it also creates a distance between the sport and the fans and between athletes and the teams they play for.

The advantage of television is that it provides sports fans with greater convenience. We do not have to buy tickets and travel to a stadium, but see the World Series or the Super Bowl in our own homes, the comfort of our own living rooms. We can see more games than if we had to attend each one in a variety of person, and we can follow greater varieties of sports.

Student Behavioral Code
While I do not expect problems when working with adult learners, these policies ensure a safe and productive classroom environment. These policies are also in University of New Mexico Student Handbook:
1. Students must treat one another and the instructor with respect. Nasty remarks and name-calling are prohibited.
2. Students should not post non-related comments or questions about matters that are not a part of course curriculum.
3. Students may discuss complaints about the course with their instructor; however, they must do so in the proper environment, e.g. in a private Blackboard Learn e-mail to the instructor.
4. Students should use appropriate, polite language. Class time, e.g. discussion postings, is a professional learning environment, so obscene or offensive language, such as cursing, will NOT be tolerated.
5. Sexual harassment will not be tolerated.
6. Behavior that threatens the safety of any class member, including the instructor, will not be tolerated. The offending student may be dropped from the course. Threats, cyber stalking, or stalking fall into this category.
7. Threatening the instructor to get a change of grade is prohibited. This behavior is harassment and/or verbal assault. Grades can be disputed; students should use the process outlined in the UNM Student Handbook.
8. Students violating any of these rules will be given a written warning and may be dropped from the class. They may be required to meet with the Chair of CHESS and the Dean of Instruction.

E-mail Netiquette – Please keep the following in mind when you write e-mails:

• Send messages to me through Blackboard LEARN e-mail, not through my UNM e-mail account. Please use UNM e-mail for emergencies ONLY. If you must use UNM e-mail, type “___ (Your Name) ___ from English 110: E-mail Concerning___” in the subject line. I am not expecting e-mails from you in the general account, and I do not want to delete your message as spam.

• Include an informative subject line. In every e-mail you write to me, the subject line should contain a descriptive phrase specifically about the problem. For example, “Problems with Nouns Worksheet in Lesson 5, question 4” is clear and helpful, but “Homework” is not. Unclear subject lines slow my response because I do not have enough information without having to asking you for clarification.

• Include a salutation. E-mails do not usually include “Dear,” as a letter does, but they do include titles and last names. When you write to me, call me Dr. Huntsinger or Professor Huntsinger. Informal words of address, such as “Hey,” are never appropriate and are often rude.

• Include a closing. Please close with an appropriate phrase and sign your e-mail with your name. Signatures help me; I may not recognize your e-mail address. Some examples of appropriate phrases are “Sincerely” or “Thank you for your help.”

• Capitalize only the first word of a complimentary close. If you close your e-mail with a multi-word phrase such as “Thank you,” only the first word is capitalized.

• Use short paragraphs. Because legibility on the screen is not as good as legibility on paper, use short paragraphs (3-4 lines maximum) to make the e-mail easy to read. In addition, be sure to skip lines between paragraphs.

• Do not use instant-messaging spelling. If u want 2 b treated like a pro, write like 1®.

• Adhere to the conventions of Standard English. Please edit and proofread for spelling errors and grammatical mistakes. Use your spell/grammar check in Blackboard Learn, located above the right-hand side of the text box. In addition, the computer does not catch all errors (form/from), so give your document one final read before submitting/sending it.

• DO NOT SEND ALL CAP MESSAGES. All capital letters mean you are screaming at me. This is inappropriate behavior. To emphasize a point, underline it or put it in bold font.
Computer Policies

Technical Safeguards

Please save all your work. First, save all assignments on your hard disk and then save copies to memory sticks. For even better protection, print out hard copies of your work. Important Note: At UNM Valencia, losing a file is not an excuse for late work.

Getting Computer Help

If you experience computer difficulties, you must call (505) 277-5757 for help and fix the problem. These computer technicians can answer questions you may have concerning specific software, hardware, and other procedural issues related to this course.

Computer Policies in a UNM VC Lab

If you use the computers on campus, you must adhere to all policies set forth by the University of New Mexico at Valencia Campus.

Using Printers at UNM VC

If you print this syllabus at the UNM VC campus, please set the printer to print on both sides of the paper.
