2. Connect Access for Principles of Microeconomics by Frank, Bernanke et al

Eighth Edition

McGraw-Hill Education

ISBN: 9781264250417

This Connect 1-Semester Online Access for Principles of Macroeconomics is offered through Inclusive Access and Canvas.

Technology and Technical Skills Requirement:

You will need reliable access to a computer (desktop/laptop), high-speed internet, and the ability to upload and download files to access the online materials as needed. Software such as Adobe Reader, Microsoft Office Suite will also be used. A headset might come in handy when viewing videos and listening to podcasts and during Zoom conferencing for office hours, etc.

Course Schedule

This is a 16-week course that runs from Monday, August 22nd, 2022, through Saturday, December 17th, 2022. All due dates and time referred to in this course will be in Mountain Time.

Course Description:

Economics is a way of thinking that can help you understand everything from the stock market to marriages, to child rearing, to crime, to elections, to the decisions you make every day in your lives. It's a study of choices. It tells us the kind of trade-offs that people/companies/countries are faced with and how they decide which alternative to choose.

Microeconomics is the study of how households and firms make decisions. In this course, we will focus on understanding the fundamentals of the important tools necessary to properly analyze microeconomic models and applying those tools to real world examples. You will leave this course with a better understanding of the economic way of thinking when approaching the difficult decisions that must be made every day. Most importantly, this course will present you with a method for understanding contemporary policy issues that will lead to clearer, more objective thinking.

Canvas Login Instructions:

For help on accessing Canvas see -- How do I log in to Canvas? More help documentation located in "Help"> "UNM Canvas Help Site" link on left course menu, and also at Online Student Documentation.

Connect Registration Instructions

Please go here for instructions on registering and accessing your textbook and other material on McGraw-Hill Connect. I, as the professor, have chosen Inclusive Access (IA) to save money, and the price is less than buying directly from the publisher. Students should not shop for the required Connect access because the pathway to it is loaded into Canvas. The Connect access will be available through Canvas on the first day of class for all enrolled students.

Student Learning Outcomes:

Upon the successful completion of this course, students should be able to:

- CL1. Explain the concept of opportunity cost.
- CL2. Demonstrate knowledge of the laws of supply and demand and equilibrium.
- CL3. Use supply and demand curves to analyze responses of markets to external events.
- CL4. Use supply and demand analysis to examine the impact of government intervention.
- CL5. Explain and calculate price elasticity of demand and other elasticities.
- CL6. Demonstrate an understanding of producer choice, including cost and break-even analysis.
- CL7. Compare and contrast the different market structures such as perfect competition and monopoly.

Expectations:

1. This is an online class. To succeed in an online class, you need to have the required level of computer skills, motivation, and a commitment to learn and work on your own. Online classes are good for self-starters, i.e., students who can take the initiative to complete coursework without the direct supervision of a professor.
2. Each week, you will be expected to:
 - a. Review and complete all assigned readings,
 - b. Complete and submit all homework assignments on Connect,
 - c. Participate in class discussion (see discussion forum instructions below), and
 - d. Complete Exams on the Connect platform

No late work will be accepted.
3. Economics courses are more like mathematics courses in that keeping up with the material and doing practice problems are imperative to receiving a good grade. Each week, read and re-read the chapters and any associated study material that I post on Canvas. Read until you are confident in your understanding of the material and only then attempt the assigned homework and exams. Thinking, not memorizing, is the key to success – economics is a way of thinking, not a body of “facts”.
4. If you have any questions or need additional clarifications about any aspect of the course, e-mail me sooner rather than later. If I do not respond to your e-mail within 36 hours, please resend it. If you’d like to make sure that I receive your e-mail, write it professionally and put the following keywords in the subject line: Econ 2120 Online followed by a couple words describing the subject matter of the e-mail. You can anticipate a 24 to 36-hours response time from me, Monday – Thursday. I will try and respond to all weekend (Friday afternoon to Sunday) emails by EOD on Monday.
5. UNM provides each student with a NetID and an associated email address. It is imperative to ensure “effective contact” that you check your UNM e-mail on a regular basis. Please do not send me e-mails from your personal e-mail accounts such as Gmail, Yahoo, MSN, etc. I might not receive those emails because they are flagged as spam by the UNM mail server. Here’s UNM’s policy on emails: <https://policy.unm.edu/university-policies/2000/2540.html>
6. Important course announcements will be communicated via e-mail or the Announcements tool on Canvas. This will forward an email to your campus (registered) email address. Be sure to check the Announcements tab on the course home page regularly.
7. It is your responsibility as a student to communicate quickly with me any issue or emergency that will impact your involvement with or performance in the class. This includes, but is not limited to - getting “kicked off” of the system during tests or quizzes; - having trouble submitting assignments; - family emergencies etc.
8. Since we are dependent on the internet for this course, be mindful that problems with technology happen sometimes. To avoid missing a deadline, do not wait until the last minute to complete your assignments or exams. I will not accept your technical issues (with equipment, network connection, Canvas or Connect) as legitimate reason for missing work. If you have difficulty using a tool on Canvas to complete work, use the “Support Services” link immediately and notify me as well. If you have a difficulty using Connect, contact Connect Tech Support immediately and notify me as well.

Attendance:

This is an online course, so it is your responsibility to attend class through Canvas and complete all work assigned. You CANNOT afford to get behind. Non completion of the course or failing will affect your grade and thus may affect any scholarships, grants, or financial aid, requiring payment back to the offering institution. For attendance purposes, you are required by 11:59 PM on Sunday of each week to complete all the work due for that week. Students who fail to complete this expectation for two consecutive weeks MAY be dropped from the course without any notice. DO NOT assume, however, that if you do not log into the class, you will be dropped. If you choose not to pursue the course, it is ultimately your responsibility to officially drop the course. Please make yourself aware of drop dates here.

You will have unlimited attempts on these HW assignments up to the due date with a 5% penalty per failed attempt. You will be starting over on each new attempt.

I recommend that each week, you read and re-read the chapters and any associated study material that I post on Canvas until you are confident in your understanding of the material and only then attempt the assigned homework. Don't forget, you can always contact me via e-mail if you need additional guidance!

Discussion Board Posts:

Each week, except for the weeks when you have an exam due, you will be responsible for completing the discussion forum activities for that week. These deliverables will account for 19.5% of your final grade. You can access these forums under the respective week modules in the Canvas course. You are required to create a new thread with a response to the question(s) I post in the Forum Description. Once you create your thread, you will be able to view other threads in the forum by your classmates (as and when they are created). You are then required to go back and read your classmates' threads and create a response post to at least 2 of your classmates' threads.

Each student must make their initial thread to the forum by 11:59 PM on Wednesdays. After you make your initial post, you must then post a reply to at least two other students' initial threads (a minimum of two reply posts) by 11:59 PM on Fridays. You must also respond to ALL questions posed/ comments made by other students and/or me on your initial thread.²

Your posts must be coherent, demonstrate that you engaged with the material from previous course work/this class's texts, and reinforce important content. Your initial post should have 3 to 5 critical points relevant to the week's topic.

Initial posts must be a minimum of 250 words and your reply to posts must be a minimum of 125 words to receive an average score (C or C+/73-79). Posts beyond these numbers AND with substantial content will be considered for an above average score (B or A/80-100). Remember, long posts don't necessarily mean that you will earn a better grade. Strive for quality over quantity when it comes to word count.

Respond to others - You will individually comment—reply—to your fellow learners' posts. These responses are expected to add to the discussion and even extend it. This should not be an "I agree or disagree" post; rather, interject your own personal analysis of the originating student's posting. Please make each posting meaningful and on-point.

Please note that responding to others is a critical part of this discussion forum activity. Reading and engaging with other students' understanding of the subject matter gives depth to your understanding of the topic. If you only make an initial post but don't complete your response posts, your work for this activity will be deemed incomplete and you will earn a score of zero for the week's discussion forum.

¹ Please note that this assignment is due on the Monday after Fall Break instead of that Sunday.

² Week 8 is an exception, when your response posts are due by the Monday after Fall Break.

Practice Quizzes:

For each chapter of the book that we cover, you will have a practice quiz on the Connect platform. These quizzes are not going to factor in your final grade but are a good practice material for your exams.
