Course Description

I look forward to working with you all this semester and learning from each of you. There is no single way to approach “good writing.” Writing is a skill set that requires practice and flexibility. If you want to be a successful writer you’ll have to be agile in your approaches and develop a writing process that works best for you! That is exactly what I am here to do is guide you on how to develop a writing style that fits your individual personality. My goal in this course is to make you confident in your language, identity, and voice when it comes to writing.

In this course, students will read, write, and think about a variety of issues and texts. They will develop reading and writing skills that will help with the writing required in their fields of study and other personal and professional contexts. Students will learn to analyze rhetorical situations in terms of audience, contexts, purpose, mediums, and technologies and apply this knowledge to their reading and writing. They will also gain an understanding of how writing and other modes of communication work together for rhetorical purposes. Students will learn to analyze the rhetorical context of any writing task and compose with purpose, audience, and genre in mind. Students will reflect on their own writing processes, learn to workshop drafts with other writers, and practice techniques for writing, revising, and editing.

Throughout the semester you will progress towards these student learning outcomes (SLOs):

- Analyze communication through reading and writing skills.
- Employ writing processes such as planning, organizing, composing, and revising.
- Express a primary purpose and organize supporting points logically.
- Use and document research evidence appropriate for college-level writing.
- Employ academic writing styles appropriate for different genres and audiences.
- Identify and correct grammatical and mechanical errors in their writing.

Additional Expected Outcomes:

- increase your confidence in your reading and writing skills
- take an increasingly active role in your education

Navigating this Course

Because this class is hybrid, meaning it is half-online, it is important to have a high level of skill in operating computers. It is not recommended for students with limited computer skills to take a hybrid course. The following tips will help students navigate the course. If you have computer problems, including log in or technical issues call 277-5757. For issues with Canvas, tutors in the Learning Center can advise you at 925-8907.

Attendance

If you signed up for this course, I assume that you plan on logging into Canvas regularly and do the work. Since this is a hybrid class attendance and keeping up with assignments are extremely important: if you want to pass this course, you must log in frequently, prepare for class, and participate fully in the weekly class activities.

Policies and Requirements

This syllabus is a contract between us. Please recognize that you are responsible for the policies on these pages. However, I do reserve the right to change our schedule and/or assignments based on our class needs, but I will always let you know in advance.

- Please note: the final project for this class is a Portfolio Project. You will need to keep all your work throughout the semester for this final project. We will discuss the project more as the semester progresses.

Required Materials

- UNM email address and access to UNM Canvas
- Access to Internet and Microsoft Office (available on UNM-VC computers)
- English 1110 and 1120: College and Analytical Writing (This is a free textbook which can be found here: <https://mytext.cnm.edu/course/introduction-to-college-writing-at-cnm/>)

Course Projects

During the semester we will work in sequences. Each sequence will contain two smaller writing assignments (SWA) and one major writing assignment (MWA). This is implemented so that you may have a better understanding of the different layers in each sequence. Below is brief information about your assignments this semester:

Name	Project Description	Schedule
Week 1: Introduction to Our Hybrid Course	This week of assignments will get you familiar with how to navigate the course, what to expect from our English class, and an ice breaker so that we can get to know each other as we work through this course together. You will also begin reading material to prepare you for the first sequence of assignments.	August 21st- August 27th
Project 1: Food Memoir	This assignment requires you to write about a significant food in your life and what you have learned from it. You're not telling your whole life story in this assignment, but instead focusing on one specific time incorporating an appropriate tone/style, and including multiple scenes and lots of details. You can choose between a video memoir, an audio memoir, or a blog post.	August 21st- September 24th

Project 2: Language Discrimination Commentary	You will be creating a multimodal commentary on language discrimination and you will be using it in a persuasive manner to convince your peers why it is important. Essentially you will be creating an argument on language discrimination using evidence that you have researched through.	September 24th- October 22nd
Project 3: Rhetorical Analysis of Animation	In this assignment, you will choose an animation that you are familiar with, identify the main theme or message of the animation, and make an argument for the animation based on the theme. This assignment asks you to analyze the rhetorical choices that the animator is making and how they do so. This project must be either in a blog post or video format.	October 23rd- November 19th
Final Portfolio	The portfolio is your final for our class where you will account for your learning in the course. For each project you will reflect on your writing process and tell your instructor how the project helped you with composition. These reflections will be housed in the portfolio. You will write a learner's plan in which you will discuss what you would like to work on as a writer and your progress over the course of the semester. You will also revise one project into a new creative multimodal composition.	November 20th- December 13th

Peer Review

Writers need thoughtful feedback on their writing if they are to improve their writing skills. For each writing project, you will engage in peer review, responding to your peers' projects (see the peer review prompt from your instructor regarding instructions on how to give this feedback). We've labeled the peer review space "Peer Review Discussion Board," and there's one of these discussion boards for each project. You'll upload your project here and give feedback to your peers in this same space.

Required Work and Grading

All formal writing assignments must follow MLA format, be in Microsoft Word (or Word compatible), and be double-spaced in a 12pt, Times New Roman font. Grades will be determined on a traditional percentage system, with the appropriate plus or minus sign:

100-90% = A; 89-80% = B; 79-73%= C; 69-60% = D; and below = F.

You need a "C" (73% or 730 points) to pass this course.

Assignment submission and late work

Most assignments are due at the end of the week on Sunday's or on the scheduled date unless otherwise indicated, whether you attend class that day or not. I understand that emergencies and sick days happen; therefore, late work will be accepted upon an agreed date between the instructor and student. Otherwise, late work will be accepted with a 10% deduction after each day. Late submissions will not be accepted after three days unless discussed otherwise.

I am a good listener and encourage students to communicate with me as best they can so that they can keep up in class. I am always willing to work with you as long as you make an attempt to communicate with me.

Point Distribution

Assignment	Point Value
Week 1	100
Sequence 1	215
Sequence 2	225
Sequence 3	230
Final Portfolio	230
Total Points:	1,000

Possible Extra Credit Points: 50

Learning Commons: Tutoring Services

Tutoring is available to you in math, science, writing, and other subjects through the Learning Commons: Learning and STEM Centers and Writing Center. In person tutoring is in these centers in the LRC (the building that also has the library). Tutoring in Zoom and, for writing, through email, is also available.

Making use of tutoring is a fantastic way to use your resources and set yourself up to learn deeply and well in your courses.

To schedule an appointment, please go to: Learning Commons Bookings

If you are making an email appointment with the Writing Center, email your draft to tutor@unm.edu after you fill out the form above.

If you have difficulty with the scheduling link above, would like an appointment in a subject not listed at that link, or have a question, email tutor@unm.edu. You'll get answers during business hours Monday through Friday.

The webpage, with more details about available hours, is here: Learning Commons: Tutoring Services webpage.

Important Dates:

Monday, August 21	First Day of Classes
Friday, September 1st	Last Day to Add or Change Sections
Friday, September 8th	Last Day to Drop with 100% refund
Friday, November 10th	Last Day to Withdraw w/o approval of Student Services
Students select the PDF Link for the Enrollment Authorization-During the Term Form.	Last Day to Withdraw with approval of Student Services
Friday, December 8th	Last Day of Instruction (Before Finals)

Plagiarism

Plagiarism is a form of theft. It is grounds for failing the course. Plagiarism occurs when a writer uses someone else's phrasing, sentences, or distinctive insights without giving proper credit. Be sure to acknowledge your sources! In this age of downloadable papers, remember that turning in work that, in whole or in part, is not your own is also plagiarism. When in doubt about quotation, citation, or acknowledgement of sources, see me for help.

"Plagiarism" is a type of academic dishonesty. It occurs when writers deliberately use another person's language, ideas, or materials and present them as their own without acknowledging the source. Every first-year writing class covers plagiarism in great detail, so there is little excuse for failing to understand what constitutes plagiarism or the consequences that will result.

Plagiarism can include any of the following:

- Failing to quote material taken from another source.
- Failing to cite material taken from another source.
- Submitting writing that was written by another person or for another class.
- Submitting writing that was substantially edited by another person.
- Using writing from another class for this class.

The UNM Student Code of Conduct also addresses Academic Dishonesty at <https://policy.unm.edu/regents-policies/section-4/4-8.html>.

Online Behavior

- Our class is an inclusive environment where everyone is welcome. Treat each other with respect.
- Derogatory remarks, name-calling, trolling, bullying, and bigotry are prohibited.
- Students may discuss with me complaints about the course; however, this must do done in the proper environment, such as via email or during office hours.
- Discussion boards are a professional learning environment. Treat them as such.

- Sexual harassment will not be tolerated.
- Students violating any of these rules may be dropped.

Email Netiquette Policy

Keep the following in mind when you write emails and discussion posts:

- Please avoid text-speak. Learning to write professional emails is a skill you need as you progress to higher academic levels and career pursuits.
- Emails should include a salutation. For example, “Dear Lily” or “Hello Professor Intong” or “Hi Lily” are appropriate salutations. Part of “composition” is learning how to know when to use formal vs. informal vs. casual language.
- Please close with an appropriate phrase and sign your email with your name. Some examples of appropriate phrases are “Sincerely,” or “Thank you for your help,”.
- Use short paragraphs (in general, 3-4 lines maximum) to make the email easy to read. In addition, be sure to skip lines between paragraphs.
- Be sure to proofread your email for grammatical errors

Equal Access

Services located in Student Services provides academic support to students who have disabilities. If students think they need alternative formats for completing coursework, they should contact this service right away to ensure their needs are met in a timely manner. Students are responsible for getting all documented forms to me as soon as possible. I cannot accommodate any special needs without the proper authorization from UNM Valencia Campus Accessibility Services. They are located at Advisement & Counseling Services, Student Services Building, 280 La Entrada Rd., Los Lunas, NM 87031, 505-925-8560. <https://valencia.unm.edu/students/advisement/equal-access-services.html>. Pursuant to the American with Disabilities Act (ADA), I accommodate documented special needs and encourage students to discuss their concerns with me.

Land Acknowledgement

Founded in 1889, the University of New Mexico sits on the traditional homelands of the Pueblo of Sandia. The original peoples of New Mexico Pueblo, Navajo, and Apache since time immemorial, have deep connections to the land and have made significant contributions to the broader community statewide. We honor the land itself and those who remain stewards of this land throughout the generations and also acknowledge our committed relationship to Indigenous peoples. We gratefully recognize our history.

Citizenship and/or Immigration Status

All students are welcome in this class regardless of citizenship, residency, or immigration status. Your professor will respect your privacy if you choose to disclose your status. As for all students in the class, family emergency-related absences are normally excused with reasonable notice to the professor, as noted in the attendance guidelines above. UNM as an institution has made a core commitment to the success of all our students, including members of our undocumented community. The Administration’s welcome is found on our website: <http://undocumented.unm.edu/>.

Connecting to Campus and Finding Support:

UNM has many resources and centers to help you thrive, including opportunities to get involved, mental health resources, academic support including tutoring, resource centers for people like you, free food at Lobo Food Pantry, and jobs on campus. Your advisor, staff at the resource centers and Dean of Students, and I can help you find the right opportunities for you.

Sexual Violence and Sexual Misconduct

Our classroom and our university should always be spaces of mutual respect, kindness, and support, without fear of discrimination, harassment, or violence. Should you ever need assistance or have concerns about incidents that violate this principle, please access the resources available to you on campus. Please note that, because UNM faculty, TAs, and GAs are considered "responsible employees" by the Department of Education, any disclosure of gender discrimination (including sexual harassment, sexual misconduct, and sexual violence) made to a faculty member, TA, or GA must be reported by that faculty member, TA, or GA to the university's Title IX coordinator. For more information on the campus policy regarding sexual misconduct, please see:

<https://policy.unm.edu/university-policies/2000/2740.html>.

Under Title IX, I am considered a "responsible employee" by the Department of Education and therefore I am required to report any incidence of gender discrimination (including sexual harassment, sexual misconduct, and sexual violence) to the Title IX Coordinator at the Office of Equal Opportunity (oeo.unm.edu). If you report any incidence of gender discrimination to me I must report it to the Office of Equal Opportunity. Please be aware that in such cases the student-teacher relationship does not guarantee confidentiality.

Student Privacy

Student privacy is strongly protected by professors at UNM-VC. The federal FERPA strictly prohibits the instructor or administrators from talking to anyone but the student about his/her progress. If a student has questions about a grade on an assignment or about the final grade for the course, FERPA dictates that the student is the only one who may speak to the instructor regarding their grades. All other outside requests for information release must be sent to and approved by the UNMVC registrar: (505) 925-8580 <http://www.unm.edu/~unmvc/Admissions/admiss.htm>.

Technical Support

If you have questions about computer-related problems, call 277-5757, M-F, 8:00 am-12:00 noon and M-F, 1:00 pm-5:00 pm MST. Computer technicians are available and happy to help you solve those difficult problems
